LONG BIO

Andrew is a Singaporean based pianist/ pipe organist. He started learning classical piano & electone at the age of 4. Andrew has always focused on reharmonizing music that he listens to by creating his own personal renditions on the piano. His musical playing style has a unique blend of integrating classical and jazz. He is also an avid Pipe organist in his church choir of over 25 years.

He started performing live from 5 years old at Yamaha Music school as well as at his primary school's concerts on the electone and piano respectively. From 21 years old, he began to play the pipe organ for church weddings and funerals and gradually became highly sought after due to his superior reharmonisation and improvisation techniques.

He has performed on various stages and festivals and sessioned for many artists in Singapore e.g. Singapore Night Festival.

It has always been Andrew's dream to push his quest for musical knowledge to the limit at a tender age. For him, music is a never ending journey of discovery and exploration, akin to man exploring space and the outer frontiers of the galaxy. This ideology was coined at a very tender age when Andrew was watching and listening to the music of STAR WARS in the cinema ( EMPIRE STRIKES BACK).

Andrew is currently an undergraduate at LASALLE College of the Arts, Singapore, undertaking a BA(Hons) Music degree at the School of Contemporary Music and would graduate by 2022.

Andrew has also been imparting knowledge and invaluable experience to his students in both classical theory & piano (ABRSM) as well as pop piano and keyboard ( Trinity ) for more than 20 years.

After graduating from LASALLE, Andrew intends to continue his performance career and as an educator, guiding his students at an even higher and deeper level. He hopes this will motivate his students to even greater heights in their musical learning journey.
